

*From the Desk of
Lieutenant General Lori Reynolds, USMC (Ret.)

---

---

Cyber Resilience and the Russia Threat

As I write this today, people around the world are watching the actions of Russia as it threatens an invasion of Ukraine. Whether or not international diplomacy is successful, the threat of cyber activity is real and high; not just for Ukraine but for all of us.

The notice linked below from the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) provides helpful recommendations for leaders across all Industries, financial sectors and municipalities to consider. I urge you to give this bulletin a few minutes of your time today and to support implementation of its recommendations. Remember: cybersecurity is a team sport.

CISA Urges Organizations to Implement Immediate Cybersecurity Measures to Protect Against Potential Threats

01/18/2022 08:51 AM EST

Original release date: January 18, 2022

In response to recent malicious cyber incidents in Ukraine — including the defacement of government websites and the presence of potentially destructive malware on Ukrainian systems — CISA has published CISA Insights: Implement Cybersecurity Measures Now to Protect Against Potential Critical Threats.

Click here to read the full release from CISA.

---

---

Lori Reynolds is engaged as a Senior Consultant for Multi-Bank Securities, Inc. on matters pertaining to geopolitical, cybersecurity and veteran initiatives. Views expressed by Lori Reynolds are hers and hers alone, and are not to be regarded by intended recipients as a substitute of independent judgment, and the information provided is not to be considered an offer from Multi-Bank Securities, Inc. to purchase or sell any security, nor a recommendation for any particular security or investment strategy. Multi-Bank Securities, Inc. communications are intended for institutional clients, and should not be distributed to any individual “retail” investor.